

SENATE

Meets in Special Session

Mr. Gorman Greeted With Loud Applause

THIRTEEN NEW SENATORS ARE SWORN IN.

A LIST OF THE NEW MEMBERS.

The Galleries Were Filled by Their Friends and Flowers Were Seen in Great Profusion.

Washington, March 5.—The Senate convened in special session at noon today in accordance with the terms of the President's proclamation. There was a profuse and beautiful display of flowers to greet the newly elected members of the body and the galleries were filled with their friends. Marylanders were present in force and when Mr. Gorman appeared on the floor he was saluted with loud applause.

Washington, March 5.—Thirteen new Senators will be sworn in today when the Senate meets in special session. In all 30 Senatorial terms expired yesterday, but the rest of the number, with the exception of Alice and Ball of Delaware, who were sworn in, are already members of the Senate and have been re-elected.

Of the new men Levi Ankeny of Washington is a tall, thin banker who is president of seven national banks and is very rich. James P. Clarke of Arkansas, who succeeds James K. Jones, is a politician who has been Governor of his State. Arthur Pue Gorman, who returns after a few years of absence, will at once try to assume the Democratic leadership. Albert G. Hopkins of Illinois, who succeeds Senator Mason, merely has to walk from the House end of the Capitol to the Senate. Representatives Asbury C. Latimer of South Carolina and Chester I. Long of Kansas can join Mr. Hopkins in his walk across the Capitol if they wish. Senator Weldon H. Heyburn of Idaho will be the heaviest man in the new Senate. He confesses to weighing 280 pounds.

James B. McCreary, who succeeds Dr. Deboe, is one of the richest men in Kentucky. He combs his hair like Daniel Webster used to comb his. Francis G. Newlands of Nevada is, too, very rich. Reed Smoot, the Mormon apostle, looks about as little like one's preconceived ideas of an apostle as can be imagined. Smoot is tall and painfully thin.

William J. Stone of Missouri is universally known as "Gumshoe Bill." He has a reputation as a politician and is the hero of that famous description: "Bill Stone; he sucks eggs and hides the shells."

Ankeny, Smoot and Ball join with Penrose, Fairbanks and Platt of Connecticut in being the tallest men in the Senate. Together, the six comprise about 37 feet of Senatorial dignity.

Of the 13 Senators who failed to secure re-election six are Republicans and seven Democrats, but of the Republicans two, Senator Jones of Nevada and Senator Wellington of Maryland, have each supported for a time the national candidates of the opposing party. Two other Senators, Deboe of Kentucky and Pritchard of North Carolina, are Southern Republicans and both are succeeded by Democrats.

The remaining two Republicans are Senators Mason of Illinois and Simon of Oregon. Of the seven retiring Democratic Senators Harris of Kansas, Turner of Washington and Heitfeld of Idaho were elected as Populists, and all are succeeded by Republicans. Senator McLaurin of South Carolina was elected as a Democrat. The other three—Senators Vest, Jones of Arkansas and Rawlins—have from first to last been in the Democratic ranks, and Jones and Vest have risen to places of conspicuous leadership in that party.

THREE KILLED.

Cork, March 5.—Three persons were killed and several injured by the collapse of two houses here today.

POPE LEO

Owing to Illness is Still Unable to See the English Pilgrims—Has a Severe Cough.

Rome, March 5.—Pope Leo passed a restless night owing to an increase in the severity of his cough and the appearance of bronchitis symptoms. His Holiness, however, still expects to be able to see the English pilgrims. When Rev. Father Barretti, secretary to Bishop McDonnell of Brooklyn, asked this morning when he would be able to see the Pope to deliver Peter's pence to him, he received the reply: "You are not likely to see His Holiness unless you remain in Rome a long time."

London, March 5.—The Central News' Rome correspondent says the Pope's restlessness last night was due to an attack of dysentery. Dr. Laponi the Pope's physician, according to the correspondent, said this morning that His Holiness's cold was slightly worse.

TELEPHONE GIRL IS GIVEN BIG DAMAGES.

Kansas City, Mo., March 5.—A jury in the circuit court awarded Miss Eva Cook, a telephone operator, $12,500 damages against the Missouri and Kansas Telephone company for injuries inflicted by Herschell Graves, a manager in central office.

Miss Cook testifies that while she was seated on a high stool at work, Manager Graves, angered because she had not carried out some trivial order, roughly whirled her about, causing her to strike and injure her knee and shoulder.

DETECTIVES

Disguised as Dummies Stood in the Store and Later Made an Arrest for Larceny.

New York, March 5.—Detectives dressed as dummies and keeping an all night vigil in the dry goods establishment of Adams & Co., discovered that Otto Brandes, chief watchman, was acting in such a queer fashion as to warrant his arrest on suspicion of theft. Brandes' house was searched and silks, rugs, toilet articles and gold silverware identified as belonging to the store were found. Brandes was locked up charged with grand larceny.

GIRL'S ADVENTURE

With Savage Elk in Colorado—Seeks Game Wardens on Strength of Her Victory.

Denver, Colo., March 5.—Miss Emma Kellogg of Routt county, the plump and handsome applicant for the position of game warden for the Routt and Rio Blanco counties district, made a marked sensation in the capitol corridors today. Miss Kellogg's most thrilling adventure was a wild ride on the back of an elk. While out in the hills one day she came suddenly on an angry bull elk. She had leaned her gun against a tree, and before she could get it the elk was upon her. Miss Kellogg took advantage of a moment's respite to climb a tree and sat on the first limb. This made the elk angrier than ever and he gave the tree such a hunt that Miss Kellogg fell off. She would have been stamped to death by the animal's sharp hoofs had it not been that luckily she fell on the elk's back. Then with great presence of mind she grasped the antlers and held on for dear life. The elk darted through some thick brush where overhanging branches came low down in order to brush the rider off. But the terrified animal miscalculated about the antlers and got caught in the branches. It struggled and struggled, but could not get loose, and it was but the work of a moment for the intrepid mountain girl to kill the captive animal by cutting its throat with her hunting knife.

WIFE

Says She Will Kill Herself

If Strangler Knapp Is Put to Death

MURDERER'S RELATIVES PREPARING FOR THE DEFENSE.

BURIAL OF MRS. KNAPP NO. 3

Takes Place Thursday at Hamilton—Knapp Gives His Reasons for Making the Confession.

Hamilton, O., March 5.—"Tell Allice for me, if I do not see him again that if he is sentenced to the electric chair, I will on the day he is killed, walk to the White river bridge, near our home in Indianapolis and throw myself in. Tell him I cannot live without him, and tell him I will do it when no one will be watching me."

This was the message that Anna Gamble, wife No. 4 of Strangler Alf. Knapp, left for her husband when she was placed on a train for her return to Indianapolis Wednesday afternoon. Knapp is beginning to prepare for a battle for his life. His people are going to fight for him and last night he was informed by his sister, Mrs. Sadie Wenzel, that the family had engaged Cincinnati attorneys to defend him.

KNAPP GIVES REASON FOR MAKING CONFESSION.

Hamilton, O., March 5.—The reason for the making of all of his confessions has been given by Knapp to his sister, Mrs. Sadie Wenzel. The prisoner harbors ill will against his sister, Mary King, and her husband, and does not attempt to conceal it when he charges that they betrayed him. "They told on me," he said, "so I just thought that I would tell everything, and if they were looking for disgrace, they could have the disgrace of it all. I hope they are satisfied now."

"I would like to have the money to bury Hannah," Knapp said when told that there was no question of identity of the body, "but as the Kings have buried in and say they are going to bury her, they can do it."

It was decided not to confront Knapp with the body of Hannah Godard. The police were guided by Professor Gard. He did not approve of putting the prisoner now on the verge of a serious breakdown, through the ordeal.

Miss Lida Sterritt of this city, half sister of Hannah Knapp, was shown the jewelry as she lay ill in bed. She at once declared it to be that worn by the murdered woman. Another sister afterwards identified the jewelry, making the fourth relative to identify the articles.

LIVES LOST

IN A TENEMENT HOUSE FIRE ON THURSDAY.

Milkman Discovered Blaze and all but Two People Escaped from Burning Building.

New York, March 5.—Two women, a mother and daughter, lost their lives in a fire which gutted the upper three stories of a five story brick tenement at 319 East Seventh street, at 5 o'clock this morning. The dead: Mrs. Ellen Vail, a widow. She was suffocated and burned. Her body was found lying across the threshold of her apartment on the fourth floor.

Miss Lizzie Vail, 22 years old, single, jumped from the window in the front of her apartment. Her body struck the railing and she was badly mangled.

The fire was discovered on the third floor by a milkman. He gave the alarm and all the families in the tenement with the exception of the Vails escaped by the fire escape and in the rear of the building. The loss is estimated at $75,000.

SO HARD

Did Mr. Duff Blow His Nose that He May Lose the Sight of One of His Eyes.

Norfolk, Va., March 5.—A remarkable accident befell Mr. Duff, of West Highland avenue. In an effort to clear his nose after sneezing, he blew out the conjunctival sac of the left eye a thin membrane lining the lid and covering the eyeball. The doctor punctured the sac, permitting the air to escape, and then replaced it, bandaging the eye. He may lose the sight of his left eye.

ROBBERS

Blow Off Safe Door and Secured $275 in Cash and Stamps at the Postoffice.

Richmond, Ind. March 5.—Last night robbers visited Green's Fork, this county. They secured tools from a hand car house, broke off the combination from the safe in the postoffice, blew the door off and secured $275 in stamps and money. The safe was ruined.

DRESSMAKER'S JAW IS BROKEN BY A LOVER.

New York, March 5.—Because his fiancée's ball dress was not finished at the time promised John Fliee, a steamfitter, lost his temper and struck the disappointing tailor's wife in the face, breaking her jaw. Fliee was arrested and held in $1,000 bail for examination today.

Miss Annie Scott, the fiancée, was to accompany Fliee to a ball and ordered a gown for the occasion. The gown was to have been finished Tuesday afternoon. It was not and Miss Scott sent Fliee around to Ladies' Tailor Katz's place to get the dress. He went with the results stated.

Christian Science.

Richmond, Va., March 5.—The Virginia Senate passed a bill yesterday forbidding Christian Scientists to practice their profession of healing the sick in this state and charging therefor unless they have been duly examined and licensed by the state board of state medical examiners. It was argued that lawyers might finally claim to be able to win suits by prayer if the thing was not stopped. The strongest opponent of the Christian Scientists was D. Gardiner, son of ex-President John Tyler.

Eighth Victim.

Easton, Pa., March 5.—Geo. Bowman the timekeeper of the Edison Portland cement plant, of New Village, N. J., died at the Easton hospital today from injuries sustained by the explosion of Monday night. He is the eighth victim.

Lee Statue Bill.

Richmond, Va., March 5.—Only the Governor's signature is now needed to make a law of the bill to place a statue of General Robert E. Lee in Statuary Hall, Washington. The measure which had previously been approved by the Senate was adopted in the House without debate.

CROP REPORT.

Columbus, O., March 5.—The monthly crop report of the State Board of Agriculture places the condition of wheat at 94 per cent of the average condition for this time of year. There is a splendid showing for the growing crop.

WITH REMORSE

TOLSTOI IS FILLED BECAUSE OF A LETTER

Which He Wrote Condemning Crown Princess Louise—He Does Not Condemn Her.

London, March 5.—A dispatch received here from St. Petersburg this morning quotes a letter written by Count Tolstoi, in which he apologizes to the Crown Princess Louise of Saxony for his letter condemning her for cloping with M. Giron. Tolstoi says he is overcome with remorse. He says: "I very much regret what I thoughtlessly expressed in that letter. I know all the malignity and powerful snare into which the unfortunate woman has fallen. I know the temporary blindness and forgetfulness of all the higher demands of the soul which it produces and therefore being myself full of sins, I cannot even think of throwing a stone at a suffering woman."

"I apologize to the former crown princess for my cruel and heartless words. Not only do I not condemn her, but from all my soul, I feel for her in her sufferings, and wish for her that peace which is always possible for one who believes in God and appeals to Him."

Charles Copper went to Newark on Friday afternoon on business connected with the Labor Day celebration, which is to be held in this city.—Mt. Vernon Banner.

ADDICKS

Seems Confident That He Will Be Elected Senator Two Years Hence in Delaware.

Washington, March 5.—Edward Addicks of Delaware, whose fight for election to the United States Senate has become the striking feature of the present history of his state and who gained a partial victory by compromising with his factional opponents, sending one of their men and one of his to the Senate, is still in the city and is coquettish of a more decided victory two years hence.

"I am entirely content with the situation," he said. "Two years from now I will be elected U. S. Senator for a full term, just as certain as I live."

At that time the term of Senator Ball, his opponent, will expire and the contest will be renewed with unabated vigor.

STRUCK BY TRAIN

Mother and Child Killed and Two Other Children Fatally Injured—Accident Near Springfield on The Big Four Railroad.

Springfield, O., March 5.—Mrs. John Grefwood and three children, two girls aged 16 and 12, and a boy aged 11, were walking across the Big Four trestle west of this city at 7:15 o'clock this morning when they were struck by a local Cincinnati freight southbound. The mother and the oldest girl were instantly killed and the other two were fatally injured. All were knocked from the trestle into the water 50 feet below. Engineer Thos. Leedy claims that the fog was so dense that he could not see 25 feet ahead of the engine.

NO ARREST AS YET

But Buffalo Police Expect to Make One Soon—Woman Forced to Keep Quiet But Officers Say They Know Her—Burdick Murder.

Buffalo, N. Y., March 5.—A woman was not arrested yesterday afternoon for the Burdick murder as was expected, but Chief of Police Bull says that such an arrest may be made soon. Opinion, as it is announced to the public, differs as to whether a man or a woman killed Burdick. The only definite conclusions are that Burdick was killed with a cocktail bottle instead of with a golf stick. The theory that a man killed Burdick while a woman looked on, is borne out by the fact that the lifeless and bloody body was covered with pillows. The police say that this was the work of a woman.

Burdick, it is thought now, was reclining on the couch, conversing with the woman, who had called unexpectedly in response to a telephone appointment made with the man in the case.

This man is thought to have been in Burdick's office and to have made a date with the woman, probably his wife, to meet Burdick at Burdick's house Thursday night. The police theory is that the man followed in the cab driven by Delahunt and entered the house unobserved. Without being seen by Burdick, it is thought, the man seized the cocktail bottle from

Wants to Help Hang Murderer of Friend.

Kansas City, March 5.—Miss Gussie Chatworth of 3030 Garfield avenue, wants to spring the trap that will send "Bud" Taylor, who shot his girl sweetheart, Ruth Nollard, with a rifle from ambush, into eternity, April 17th.

She came down the corridor of the jail building and walked jauntily into the office, where sat Deputy Marshal Garrard Chestnut. She was fashionably attired.

Miss Chatworth is handsome and about 30 years old.

"Are you going to allow any women to witness the hanging of 'Bud' Taylor?" she asked.

"No, there will be no women present," replied the deputy.

"But I want to see it," she persisted.

"Well, you can have my job, if you want it. I will probably adjust the noose and spring the trap."

"I would be so delighted to do that," she exclaimed, evidently believing the deputy to be in earnest.

"I have witnessed a number of hangings. I once saw five men hanged by a mob at Baxter Spring, Kansas. My father was at one time a sheriff and I have seen at least four men legally hanged."

"I should be pleased to be present when Taylor swings."

"Besides I knew the girl Taylor murdered and I would like to see him die for it."

The deputy requested her to call again when Marshal Pendergast was present, and she left the jail building apparently happy.

ANOTHER UPRISING

Against the Foreigners Being Prepared in the Orient --Boxer Signal Will Cause a Great Massacre --Rumors of Trouble.

London, March 5.—Rumors are again prevalent of approaching trouble in China. An anti-foreign movement within the next few months is declared to be inevitable.

The Standard's correspondent at Tien Tsin, says the entertainments, which are being prepared at the palace for members of the legation resembles the treacherous friendliness that preceded the Indian mutiny. Tung and Tuan are declared to be the villains of the piece and the Standard correspondent thinks that the idea once again will be the powerlessness of the court to check rebellion.

Then hordes will come down under the two exiled leaders and nominally overpower Peking, and at the same time swell their following with all the forces in the capital, and begin a grand march of extermination against everything foreign. This time, however, the Yangtze region and every port must rise simultaneously but for this purpose all the Yangtze defenses are being brought to the highest state of effectiveness.

Russia is very much alive to the situation. The latest information received at St. Petersburg from the secret emissaries of the Russian legation at Peking indicates that nearly the whole Celestial empire is ramified by a huge net work of secret Boxer committees which only await an opportunity and a given signal to sweep the detected foreigners out of the country.

HIGH TARIFF CAUSING FAMINE IN THE PHILIPPINES.

It is a somber picture of the situation in the Philippines which the President presents in his message to the Senate.

He transmits a cable from Governor Taft declaring that the conditions of productive industry and business are considerably worse than in November (when they were desperately bad, according to the same authority), "and growing worse each month."

"The President also states that Vice Governor Wright indorses in the strongest manner all that Governor Taft says and expresses "the gravest apprehension as to the damage that may come to the islands if there is not a substantial reduction in the tariff levied against Philippine goods arriving into the United States."

The President himself goes on to say that a "series of calamities have befallen the Philippine people." He mentions some of the calamities, concluding that there is imminent danger of famine in the islands.

He tells the Senate that in order to avert this crowning calamity it is not enough to appropriate $3,000,000 for relief. "The indispensable and pre-eminent need is the resurrection of productive industry from the prostration into which it has been thrown."

In order to promote this resurrection there must be some lowering of tariff barrier which Congress maintains against the products of the islands, which are the territory of the United States as much as New Mexico is.

This is interesting as a confession that tariff obstruction of trade is extremely hurtful to people who are the victims of calamities and tolerable only to the prosperous.

It is interesting as a confession that the exceptions we have made to the rule of free trade with our territories, which was invariable until after the Spanish war, have been ruinous to the people we were going to treat so benevolently.

This appeal to the Senate for relief from tariff oppression does not come from the wicked anti-imperialists. It comes from that strenuous advocate of conquest and subjugation, President Roosevelt, and has no taint of the so-called "treason" that we hear constantly paraded by the defenders of crime and corruption in the Philippines.

It is estimated that 750,000 immigrants will arrive in this country during the year 1902. As most of them will be illiterates who will work at the lowest labor rates, the American workman can figure upon how much "protection" he is getting out of the tariff.

Ten days ago a negro shot and wounded a white man in a certain town and escaped. The white residents of the town ordered all the negroes to leave, which they failed to do, and the white residents attacked the negroes with ropes and poles and demolished them. The negroes packed up their belongings and boarded a freight train. It happens that the town where this occurred is not in Mississippi but in Pennsylvania.

Why Make Distinctions.
(Brooklyn Citizen.)

Why seek to impress a negro collector of the port of Charleston, a negro postmistress on Indianola, while the northern negro, far more intelligent in the mass, is forced to be content with a position as doorkeeper or messenger? Why is this discrimination made, except to punish the south for being Democratic and to pose in the north among the colored people as the protector and champion of their race?

The way of a man is to make laws, but follow out his own. We carry happiness into our condition, but cannot hope to find it there.—Holtz.

Prosperity is no just scale. Adversity is the only balance to weigh friends.—Plutarch.

Children are unconscious philosophers. They refuse to pull to pieces their enjoyments to see what they are made of.—Henry Ward Beecher.

Energy will do anything that can be done in this world, and no talents, no circumstances, no opportunities, will make a two legged animal a man without it.—Goethe.

Great, ever fruitful, profitable for reproof, for encouragement, for building up in manifold purposes and works, are the words of those that in their day were men.—Carlyle.

The Alaska Boundary Treaty.
(Washington Star.)

Canada will perhaps in a few days realize that this treaty is not designed to submit the case to an arbitration at all, was not so intended by England or the United States, but is merely a polite means of putting an end to boundary claims in behalf of which England has never been able to advance the first substantial argument and in opposition to which the United States has only to point to the British admiralty globes and maps, which fix the line precisely as the American contention now and always has placed it.

The Only Way

TO CURE CHRONIC STOMACH TROUBLE

Is to cure the Cause. You can relieve it by taking Peppin, Soda or the many Dr. Cassell's Tablets, but they will not cure. It is absolutely necessary to cure the inner lining of the stomach, and that is what NAU'S DYSPEPSIA CURE will do.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Oct. 11th, 1902. Mr. Frank Nau, New York City:

"Dear Sir—I have been troubled with stomach trouble for a number of years, and have had the pleasure of giving your remedy a trial, and am convinced that it will prove beneficial in every case where one is suffering from trouble of the stomach. I highly recommend it, having received great benefit myself from the use of your remedy. Respectfully,

COMMISSION

In Conference With President Mitchell and Lawyers for the Coal Operators.

Washington, March 5.—The anthracite coal strike commission is conferring today with President Mitchell of the United Mine Workers' and Attorneys for the operators. A meeting is being held behind closed and guarded doors and though no word is allowed to reach the outside world from the council chamber at the interstate commerce commission headquarters it is known that ten attorneys who represent the opposing sides in the controversy are arguing over the much disputed question of weight.

The miners demand that coal be weighed after it is loaded upon the cars and before it makes its trip to the breakers.

New Store.

Lemard Larason of St. Louisville, has opened a branch office of the Keystone Commercial company of Pittsburgh at 56 South Second street, in the new brick building. He will deal in hay, grain, straw, mill feed and produce of all kinds, for which he will pay the highest market price.

THE RIVALS.—The Jeffersons presenting The Rivals at the Auditorium Wednesday night 'delighted a large audience. The supporting company was well balanced and strong.

Pedigrees of Arabian Horses. The Arabs have no written pedigrees. It is all an affair of memory and of notoriety in the tribe. Certain alleged pedigrees of Arabian horses, couched in romantic language and represented as carried in a small bag and hung by a cord around the animal's neck, have been published, but these are forgeries got up probably by horse dealers, Egyptian, Syrian or Persian. The breeding of every horse is a matter of common knowledge, and it would be impossible for his owner to fabricate pedigree so as to deceive the natives, even if he were so inclined. The Bedouins, it seems necessary to admit, are in general great liars, and they will lie to a stranger about the age, the qualities or the ownership of a horse, but they will not lie about his pedigree, even when they can do so with impunity. To be truthful on this subject is almost a matter of religion, certainly a point of honor in the desert.—Atlantic.

Animals That Delight to Play.

In animals the faculty of amusement awakes very early. Our four footed friends seem to be aware of this and make it a part of their parental duties to amuse their young. A ferret will play with her kittens, a cat with hers, a dog with her puppies. A mare will play with her foal, though the writer has never seen a cow try to amuse her calf nor any birds their young. If their mothers do not amuse them, the young ones invent games of their own.—London Tit-Bits.

The Coldness of Space.

Away out in space is a cold so intense that we fairly fail to grasp its meaning. Perhaps 200 or 300 degrees below the freezing point of water, some philosophers think, are the dark recesses beyond our atmosphere. And night and day, summer and winter, this insatiable space is robbing us of our heat and fighting with demonic power to reduce our globe to its own bitter chill.

Beginnings of the Humbert Fraud.

According to latest stories from Paris, the germ of the Humbert fraud seems to have been a semite stratagem of M. Daurignac, father of the wily Theres, says the New York Commercial Advertiser. He was proud of some documents contained in a coffer which he kept locked and frequently informed his children that they were left by their mother as a sacred charge, adding that after his death they would make a large fortune. Theres Daurignac used this fancied possession as a bait to obtain the consent of Frederic Humbert's parents to their marriage. Encouraged by her success and by the nomination of her father-in-law to the ministry of justice, she magnified the operations and started the Crawford succession.

"We judges are getting to be the whole thing in government. We are approaching a condition that will be without precedent in the history of the world, in which the governing power will be exercised by the judges with the executives and legislators as mere figureheads in carrying on the government. SUSPENSION

Of Common Pleas Judgment Until Circuit Court Can Hear Idlewild

Park Case.

The Buckeye Lake road some weeks ago secured a temporary injunction restraining J. F. Lingafelter from removing certain buildings from Idlewild Park. When this case was heard by the Common Pleas court the injunction was dissolved.

Attorney J. R. Fitzgibbon for the Buckeye Lake road, applied to the Circuit court, sitting in Canton, for a suspension of the order dissolving the injunction, until the case can be heard probably the latter part of this month or the first part of April.

This suspension was granted by the Circuit court Thursday.

IN FOG

Three St. Louis Street Cars Were in Collision Thursday, Fifty Being Hurt.

St. Louis, March 5.—Three Fourth street transit cars east bound, were wrecked in a collision at 7:30 this morning. They were crowded with people going to work. About fifty passengers were bruised and badly shaken up and some were cut by falling glass but no one is known to have been seriously injured. A car ran into a wagon and a second car stopped close to the first. A third car came along and in the thick fog struck the second car and that in turn crashed into the first one.

COL. TAYLOR

SUCCEEDED BY EDW. T. MILLER AT COLUMBUS.

Former Retires, It is Alleged, as a Result of Becoming Involved with Women.

Columbus, March 5.—(Bulletin)—Governor Nash today appointed Captain Edward T. Miller of Columbus, a former newspaper man, to be Assistant Adjutant General to succeed Col. Harry M. Taylor, who retires as a result of becoming involved with women. Heretofore it has been announced that Col. Taylor resigned to accept a position with a vaccination virus company which was more lucrative than his position in the military department of the state. Col. Taylor is well known in Newark. He was in camp there with the guard last summer.

Capt. Miller, who was formerly Sunday editor of the Ohio State Journal, takes the position on May 1.

FOUR DEAD

And Four Fatally Hurt—Pacific Coast Limited Train Badly Wrecked in Texas.

Houston, Texas, March 5.—Wrecking crews are busily engaged today on a shapeless mass of what was yesterday the Southern Pacific's fine Pacific coast limited train. An engine lies half buried in mud and smashed coaches are piled up over it near here. Tip Woods, the last corpse, was dug out this morning. The list of the dead is four and fatally injured four, including Fireman Pickens, who was badly burned and his skull fractured, may recover. All the other injured and dead are colored. The train jumped the track.

ODD FELLOWS.—A special meeting of the team of Olive Branch lodge will be held on Friday evening for drill in the initiatory degree.

CHANGE OF PROGRAMME

(Copyright, 1902, by McClure's Newspaper Syndicate.)

When Deacon Abner Perkins of the village of Grafton had been a widower for two years, he married Sarah Ann Bridges, a spinster of thirty-six. Sarah Ann had been a friend of the deceased wife for several years, and when Mrs. Perkins was told that her days were numbered she called the deacon to her bedside and said:

"Abner, you will mourn for me, but you will get married again in a couple of years. You'll need somebody to wash and mend and bake and keep things going. Sarah Ann Bridges is good tempered, a good housekeeper and a hard worker, and I'd rather you would marry her than any one I know."

The deacon jotted down the initials of Miss Bridges' name on his memory, and in due time called upon her and made her his wife. He was glad, Sarah was glad, and no one had any criticisms to make. A hundred different people said they knew Sarah like a book, and that the deacon couldn't have done better. He thought so, too, for three or four weeks, and then he began to doubt. One morning the new wife suggested new window curtains for the parlor, but the deacon turned to his store book and proved to her that the old curtains hadn't been up but seven years, and that they ought to do for seven years more. It was the first time he had crossed her, and Sarah flushed up, rolled her eyes and then fell down in a fit. A doctor and three or four women worked over her for two hours and finally brought her back from the grave, and the parlor windows had new curtains the next day.

That was where Deacon Perkins made his mistake, but he did not realize it until later on. Sarah's sudden illness was supposed to be due to a weak heart, but it is no great trick to fool a doctor once or twice.

Ten days had passed, and the new wife was cleaning house, when a sewing machine man came along. He hadn't told half his story when Sarah decided that she must have a machine. The deacon's first wife always had done her sewing by hand, and the husband himself had regarded a sewing machine as an invention of Satan. He promptly put his foot down on the contemplated purchase, and Sarah was promptly fell in a heap again. It was a long three hours before she was about the house again, and upon the advice of the doctor the deacon bought the sewing machine.

A month later, when Sarah wanted new shoes and was put off, she fell over for the third time. On this occasion, however, the doctor's suspicions were aroused, and so were those of some of the women who had helped to draw her back from the grave. It was decided to be a case of sulks and nothing more dangerous. The doctor stated his belief to the deacon, and the deacon agreed with him, but that didn't mean that Sarah Ann would go out of business.

The next fit she had lasted twenty-four hours before the doctor was called and the next thirty-six, and then Deacon Perkins realized that he had a problem to deal with. It was evident that Sarah would lie right where she fell for a week unless something was done. He went to the minister. Ministers are not supposed to be posted on stocks and bonds and brickyards, but most of them have had experience with wives. He made a suggestion.

Two weeks later that suggestion was put into practice. Sarah Ann wanted a bell on the front door, but the deacon promptly replied that all callers could make themselves heard by pounding on the door with a club. Sarah fell down in one of her usual fits, and the deacon cried out that she was dead at last and rushed for certain neighbors. They came, together with the doctor. The latter pronounced the woman dead, and the women began preparing the body for its last resting place.

There were three of them, and they had a good deal to say. They congratulated the deacon with all their hearts on regaining his freedom, and they married him again to the Widow Lee. The doctor advised that the cheapest kind of a coffin should be purchased. As the deacon bent over her he said he shouldn't have much of a funeral procession and wouldn't shed any more tears than he could possibly help.

Sarah Ann, slipped off the bed and made for the broom sitting on end in a corner of the room. The deacon jumped for the door, but received a couple of whacks before he could get out. In the yard he was run twice around the henhouse and into the kitchen before being brought to bay.

"Sarah Ann, you are a dead woman!" he exclaimed as he grabbed for the broomstick.

"No; I ain't either," she replied as she fought him off.

"Go back and behave yourself and don't disappoint me again. There hasn't been a funeral in town for over a year, and if you come to life this way no woman will lend you a cup of sugar or a fatiguer."

But Sarah insisted that she was alive.

"But I want you to understand," said the deacon, anxious to test the remedy, "that I shan't get no new cane seat chairs for the parlor, as you wanted me to."

For half a minute Sarah seemed on the point of returning to her fits, but then she braced up against the feeling, and, seizing the rolling pin, she dashed it through the nearest window and exclaimed:

"No; I won't die any more! I'll keep right on living and smash out a window every time I git mad!"

"Lord, Lord!" whispered the deacon to himself. "And I thought I had a good thing of it!"

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin

Mrs. Mary O. Hahn, No. 203 Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill., writes: "For two years I have been troubled with biliousness caused by inactivity of the liver. I had dizzy spells at times, pains across my back and a tired, heavy feeling, with loss of appetite and nervousness. Our family physician prescribed some liver tablets which certainly did not help me in the least. I took Ananthin and other mineral waters, but my complexion became more yellow and my general health worse. Reading one of your little booklets I decided to give Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin a trial and am so glad I did. One bottle did more for me than ten dollars' worth of other remedies. I knew at once I had the right remedy. I kept taking it for several weeks, when I considered myself completely cured. My skin is white and smooth as a baby's and I feel in excellent health and spirits thanks to your remedy."

Blood Was Poisoned.

A Happy Cure After Use of Two Bottles of

Paine's Celery Compound

THE SPRING SYSTEM CLEANER.

Health is that natural state of the whole body in which the entire nervous system is so perfectly regulated that it can, without undue effort, perform its almost numberless and all-important duties.

The blood as it courses through the body must bear nourishment and life or poisons and death.

In the spring season thousands

JUDGE P. P. DESVERNINE.
One of the First Citizens of Cuba.

around us suffer from various forms of blood diseases and many are unexpectedly cut down by death.

Your blood is surely filled with waste and poisonous matters when you suffer from boils, pimples, blackheads, eczema, salt rheum, erysipelas or itch. When nerve force is low, when you suffer from insomnia, lassitude or neuralgia, be assured your blood demands purifying and cleansing.

Paine's Celery Compound quickly banishes from the blood all poisons; it supplies the proper elements for enriching the vital fluid, building tissue and for the general repair of the whole system. Try its renovating and life giving virtues at once if you would be made well, strong and happy. Judge P. P. Desvernine of Havana, says:

"While I was in New York I read about Paine's Celery Compound and never thought I would ever get well. I only took one bottle of that wonderful discovery and found myself with better vigor and energy."

Mr. Thos. Young, Elmora, Pa., says: "I suffered very much with blood poisoning, and after doctoring for two months with my physician and not receiving any good results, I tried Paine's Celery Compound. The use of two bottles completely cured me. All my thanks are due to Paine's Celery Compound."

SCHOOL QUESTION

"Lower Loudon" Writes in Favor of "Centralized" Schools—His Communication Follows.

Granville, O., March 5, 1903.

Editor Advocate: I desire to say a few words on the school question. I have been a member of the school board of Granville township for the past twelve years, and regarding the matter of employing a superintendent for our township, we did employ one—Mr. Taylor, one of the teachers of Denison university, at a salary of $125 per year. He gave such satisfaction that he was retained for another year at the same salary. The board then employed Mr. Painter of the same place, at a salary of $125 per year, and he was continued as superintendent for two years, when opposition manifested itself, and the services of the superintendent were dispensed with.

The Welsh Hills, correspondent says that "we cannot employ a man for less than $1,000, and we expect it will cost $500 in the Central school." He speaks of a certain member of the school board complaining of one school district having but four scholars, costing $75 per scholar under the old system, and under the Central system would cost $90 per pupil. He seems to have cornered the central idea.

I wish to say that it is the intention to double up these small districts, and have one wagon do duty for two school districts. Where they have central schools they have the township divided into routes, and as many as twenty or thirty scholars are carried to the schools in one wagon. The wagons are covered, with good seats and blankets for cold weather and if necessary, are heated. If necessary the matter of conveying the children to and from school is left to the lowest responsible bidder. He is put under bond to keep good order, to bring the children to the school house at 8:45 o'clock in the morning and at 4 o'clock in the evening he is expected to be there to take the children home. Now, regarding the long rides. How is it with the present system, when small children are compelled to trudge as far as one and a half miles from their homes to the school house, through rain, mud and snow drifts? The result is the only about 70 per cent of the enrollment attend school. Our School Commissioner says that "this State spends enough money every year on absent scholars to pay transportation to an from the schools." A lady teacher in the central schools says that the four or five mile ride in the wagon gives a wide-awakeness to the scholars that they do not have when they step from their door yard into the school. We will concede that it will be tedious for the six-year-old children.

It is true that there are some obstacles in the way, but we claim there are more good points in a central school than a district school. In the first place there is a demand for better education, which is not possible under our present school system, with the lower and higher grades in one room, and make such an up-to-date school as there is a demand for. If so why haven't we got them, and why is it that all of our advanced scholars attend school in town? Simply because they have better schools in town made so from the fact that the scholars of different grades are placed in separate rooms, thus giving the scholars an opportunity to grade and making a better school. We claim that we can do the same thing with the change, and about the same cost. We expect to care for all the large and small scholars, giving them better accommodations than they have at present, at least all the reports that we have of central school claim that they are doing this and we will not be behind in the matter.

As to the claim that if this idea prevails there will be a number of poor central schools spring up, there are quite a number of them already, but no poor ones, as the gentleman pictures in his mind, but schools that are an honor to their several townships, and over which Old Glory can be unfurled and wave with all of her freedom and glory.

One of the best examples of consolidation of school districts and transportation of pupils is found in Kirzville, Ohio. The residents of this place have realized that their scholars, though the average attendance has been greatly increased, and in answer to the question regarding the expense of purchasing grounds and a new building, would say that I could be in favor of raising a building for three years, in order to give a trial. I said factory to the township we built a suitable building can be erected in Granville.

Told She Must Die

HER CONSUMPTION WAS CURED BY BLOOD WINE

It's a pitiful sight to look upon a person who is wasted to a mere shadow with disease. So completely in the grasp of the little death-dealing germs that her every action, her voice, her stare, her tread, all tell too plainly that the demons are soon to have her life. Have you not seen such a person, and felt a lump rise in your throat as you tried to offer her some cheering word, some suggestion of comfort? If after seeing such a person, and having the impression left indelible on your mind, so that you would remember her for days and weeks, you should suddenly run across the same person a few months afterward, and behold in her quite a different person, this time instead of a hollow-cheeked, sunken, pale, stooped woman, with a deep cough, which raised blood and mucus, you should see a bright-eyed woman, straight, erect, a tinge of color in her cheek, her eye full and round, her figure plump and robust, her voice soft and sweet, with no cough, her sufferings all gone, her disease entirely overcome and almost forgotten—what would you think? Would you not ask quickly, "Why! What has wrought this miracle?" Now that is the exact experience that I passed through with Miss Nettie Clark, of 9 Hanson Street, Boston. Miss Clark had consumption, and she had it badly. So badly in fact that she was given up to die. One day I met her and never beheld such a change in a person in my life. I could hardly believe my eyes. This is the substance of what she told me: "About six years ago I contracted a cold which failed to cure and it ended in consumption. From that I went to work. When you saw me last December I had reached the point where the physicians said I could not possibly recover. I had tried everything suggested for it, but without success. As you know I was a living skeleton, couldn't eat or sleep, and had no strength for anything. Shortly after that I decided to give Blood Wine a try. The first bottle didn't seem to make much of a change, but I stuck to it because I knew consumption was a stubborn disease, and, too, because I had lately heard of several people who had been cured with it. After the second bottle I commenced to gain. This continued right along, and when I finished my sixth I started to work again. I still continued the medicine, however, for several weeks after, and in time was able to say I was entirely well. Look at me now! Do I look as if I had any consumption? I am in perfect health, and it is all due solely to 'Blood Wine.' It certainly has no equal, and I hope that my endorsement can be used in some way so as to influence other poor sufferers to try it. I would not think of being without 'Blood Wine' in the house."

If any one will stop and think a minute, and ascertain how "Blood Wine" works, he will readily see why it cures disease. Consumption is produced by a little germ—not one but millions. When the lungs are weak they swarm into them, and gnaw down the paper-like walls. This decomposition of the lungs is consumption. These germs only thrive where there is weakness. The person never lived who contracted consumption with a pair of strong, healthy lungs. "Blood Wine" prevents consumption by keeping the lungs healthy. It cures consumption by absorbing the germs and passing them from the system. It takes away soreness of the lungs, burning sensation, pains; it cures a sore throat, cough, cold, catarrh, grip—or any of the minor ailments that lead to consumption. It checks the discharge of mucus from the nose, throat, or lungs, and heals the pus-emitting sore, no matter where located. "Blood Wine" does all this by its wonderful action upon the blood. Here is another who was cured of consumption by "Blood Wine."

Miss Louise Clements, of 98 Aiken Avenue, Lowell, Mass., says:

"Last winter I caught a cold which settled on my lungs, and for weeks I was unable to get out of the house. As spring drew near, the cold work off, but left me with a rasping cough, which caused me the greatest alarm. Nothing seemed to stop it; physicians told me that I had developed consumption, and that they could do little for me except to make my life easier unless I should go to another climate. I was very weak, my skin dried and my appetite absolutely gone. A friend advised me to try 'Blood Wine,' and from the very first it helped me. My strength came back slowly but surely, I began to enjoy my food. Life became worth living, and today I am absolutely well."

WINTERMUTE

Will be Open for Business Monday, March 2.

Mr. J. A. Wintermute will be in his new rooms in the Tubbs House block on and after March 24. The rooms will occupy are furnished in an up-to-date manner, something new and different from anything in the city. The balance of the building is not quite ready for occupancy, but will be in a few days. It will pay any one to visit his parlors, whether they contemplate a purchase now or later on, as he has an entirely new stock to select from and is capable of giving new advance styles that are the correct thing for the incoming season. It is also his intention to make high class suits for ladies, which will be of special interest to those who appreciate fine up-to-date garments. With Mr. Wintermute all the success that is due him. 2-27-03

HOW DOGS FIND THEIR WAY

Evidence That They Possess Peculiar Power to Guide Them.

In the old days of the James river canal a fine setter was taken by his master on a packet boat which was so crowded that the dog was put in the captain's cabin to be out of the way, says the New York Mail and Express. His owner reached his destination after nightfall and had taken so much wine by that time that he was carried off the boat, and no one remembered his setter.

Next morning the captain took the dog on deck with him, but was much afraid he would jump off to the tow-path and try to return that way, and so handsome an animal would have been in danger of being stolen.

Carlo, however, lay perfectly quiet, but with an air of listening that attracted notice. Toward noon he heard the sound of the horn of a packet coming from the opposite way, and as the boats passed each other he made a leap and was next heard from as having got off at the place where his master had stopped and as having gone at once to the house where he was a guest.

Could human intelligence have surpassed that?

This same dog lay on his master's grave and refused food until he died from starvation. But I do not give this as a case in point.

A gentleman who lived a hundred miles from a city moved there with all his possessions, including a bulldog which had been raised at his father's home, where he had hitherto resided. He was locked up in the car with the furniture and in the bustle of unloading disappeared, and two days afterward he reached his former home, coming by an inland route, as was known by parties who recognized him, so that he evidently marked out his own path without reference to the railroad on which he had been carried away.

THE OMNIBUS.

It Was Introduced by Blaise Pascal, the Noted Mathematician.

No less a personage than the famous mathematician, Blaise Pascal, is said to have introduced the vehicle which we call the "omnibus." Unlike most other men of learning, Pascal was more or less interested in the affairs of practical life. He was the inventor of the pushcart that now permeates our streets, says the Scientific American.

In 1661 he had large wagons built for regular traffic in the heart of Paris. He allied himself in this undertaking with several influential friends, among whom was the Duke of Roaness.

In 1662 Louis XIV. granted letters patent to Pascal, in which it was said that these carriages were intended for the comfort of poor people who had to go to courts of justice or who were sick and so poor that they could not afford to pay the two pistoles exacted by the chairmen and the drivers of coaches.

At first the use of the vehicle was not generally permitted. A royal decree forbade its use by soldiers, pages, lackeys and other liveried servants, as well as artisans and porters.

Pascal, in spite of the fact that he only lived to be thirty-nine, is said to have made no inconsiderable sum out of his invention.

After the vehicle had been in use some sixteen years it was abandoned for various reasons. It was not until 1812 that it was again introduced, this time in Bordeaux, which city was followed in 1821 by Nantes and in 1827 by Paris. The vehicle was improved and rapidly became popular. Now it has been almost displaced by the tramway.

In modern times the vehicle was called an omnibus simply for the reason that it was intended for the carriage of all, without any restrictions as to lackeys, pages or footmen.

IT MATTERS NOT

How Sick You Are or How Many Physicians Have Failed to Help You.

Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy will Cure You if a Cure is Possible.

Doctors are not infallible and there are many instances where they have decided a case was hopeless and then the patients astonished everyone by getting well and the sole cause of their cure was Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. A case in point is that of James Lettuce of Canajoharie, N. Y., who writes:

"Some years ago I was attacked with pains in my back and side that were feared in the extreme. I could not control my kidneys at all and what came from them was mucous and blood. I was in a terrible state and suffered intensely. A prominent physician of Albany, N. Y., decided that an operation was all that would save me. I dreaded that and commenced to take Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. I felt better almost instantly. When I had taken about two bottles, the flow from the bladder was much cleaner, the pain stopped, and I was saved from the surgeon's knife and am now well."

Dr. W. H. Morse, the famous physician of Westfield, N. J., has this to say of this great medicine:

"I have known it to cure chronic inflammation of the kidneys, where the attending physician pronounced the case incurable."

No form of kidney, liver, bladder or blood disease, or the distressing sicknesses so common to women, can long withstand the great curative power of this famous specific. Its record of cures has made it famous in medical circles everywhere.

It is for sale by all druggists in the Now 50 Cent Size and the regular $1.00 size bottles—less than a cent a dose. Sample bottle—enough for trial, free by mail. Dr. David Kennedy Corporation, Rondout, N. Y.

AMUSEMENTS.

When Lincoln J. Carter purchased "Alaska" from W. L. Lockwood, its author, Mr. Carter being a playwright himself would not have purchased this piece of theatrical property had he not been thoroughly convinced that it was something out of the ordinary. His first move after obtaining possession of "Alaska" he sent Mr. H. J. Buhler, of the firm of Buhler & Mann, scenic artists, to Anaktun, the land adjacent to Alaska and where the locale of the play is situated, that Mr. Buhler might possess himself of photographs whereby he could reproduce upon canvas a fac simile of the country and its surroundings, and how faithfully he has fulfilled his part of the contract will be testified to by the audience at the Auditorium where "Alaska" will be produced this evening.

The cabin of Uncle Dalton and Uncle Dalton's trading post, are two scenes that are well worth seeing. Also the crater scene where the Siwash Indians worship their fire god. In addition to the magnificent scenery painted from the photographs Mr. Carter introduces a team of Esquimo dogs brought to this country expressly for this production. The cast is made up of some well known artists including Miss St. George Hussey, the great Irish comedienne, little Nanon Everett, one of the best known child artists on the stage.

BEN HUR AT COLUMBUS.

Klaw & Erlanger's stupendous spectacle "Ben Hur" comes to the Great Southern theatre, Columbus, direct from its present Mardi Gras triumph in New Orleans, for two weeks, commencing Monday, March 16th, with matinees Wednesdays and Saturdays. The coming of this great spectacle is a event of great importance. The production which comes to Columbus is the same original organization, which was seen in Chicago and St. Louis last year with the same cast, scenery, equipment, horses, camels and effects. There are a few bars of music, serving the same purpose as a voluntary before divine service, and when the curtain rises, it discloses the illimitable waste of desert; the tired camels, the three wise men, to greet the appearance of the star. Following the promise comes the brilliantly colored picture of the house tops of Jerusalem, the terrace of the palace of Hur. Next is one of the greatest scenes of the play, the dim interior of the Roman galley ship, the muscular, grim visaged slaves tugging in rhythmic motion at the oars. Then the wreck and Ben Hur and his captain struggling in the waves.

Then comes the most thrilling and realistic effect ever presented on the stage, the great chariot race. The last scene is one of fitting beauty and impressiveness, revealing the Mount of Olives, where a great multitude gathered to greet the Nazarene and where the Savior performs the miracle of cleansing the lepers. Christ's personality is never represented in the flesh, but his presence is indicated by a ray of marvellous brilliance, which is reflected by a shaft of pure white light from the halo over his head.

To present the marvellous spectacle no less than 350 people are required.

The advance sale of seats opens on Wednesday morning, March 11, at 9 o'clock. Manager Boda announces that all out of town orders, if accompanied by cash or money order will be filled before the regular box office sale opens.

CHARLOTTE CUSHMAN.
Bitter Ending of the One Love Affair of the Famous Actress.

Charlotte Cushman, the actress, was in love but once in her life. She met in Cincinnati, where she was playing, an actor named Clark, with whom she fell in love. Through her efforts Clark was advanced to leading man in the company, and the course of true love ran smoothly.

One night the actress met a strange woman behind the scenes between the acts.

The woman came up to her and addressed her thus:

"You are Charlotte Cushman, the great actress. Haven't you got enough men to admire you without coming between man and wife and robbing me of my husband?"

"Your husband?" cried Miss Cushman, getting excited.

"Yes, and you have taken or you are trying to take him from me," continued the ragged woman, looking Miss Cushman full in the face.

"Who is your husband?"

"Conrad Clark," replied the woman, "the father of this child," pointing to a half starved, thin little child in her arms.

Miss Cushman started as if she had been shot.

She went through her part that night as usual—acted it splendidly—brought down the house; then, after the performance, she sent for Clark to come to her dressing room. Clark knocked and then opened the door. She brought forward to him his wife and baby, who had been waiting in the dressing room to receive him.

Such a reception! Charlotte Cushman never looked or acted so grandly on the stage in all her life as she did that night in her dressing room. She waved Clark away with a greater majesty than ever as Queen Catherine she waved away Cardinal Wolsey, and then going to her hotel probably she had a good crying spell.

But she never loved again.

STRIKE

OF EMPLOYEES MAY BE SETTLED TODAY.

Roeser Men Quit Work Because a Non-Union Man Was Employed. He Must Join Union.

At a meeting of the local union of Paper Hangers, Painters and Decorators held Wednesday night, it was decided to call the employees of the Roeser Decorative company out on strike. In accordance with this action the men employed by this company this morning laid down their tools and quit work. There are twelve men out on strike, and from the nature of the circumstances the difficulty will involve no greater number.

Robt. Deins, an expert paper hanger, was employed by the Roeser Decorative company last November and has since worked for them. Mr. Roeser declaring that he was used to do a kind of work that it was impossible for him to get any man in Newark to do.

When Deins was asked to join the local union, he showed a receipt for a portion of the initiation fee in the Paper Hangers' Association of Cincinnati, which is not recognized by the local of the Paperhangers, Painters and Decorators.

The local corresponded with the Cincinnati organization, and claim that Deins after paying $2.50, half the initiation fee, got the cream of the work there, and left before attaining full membership. The local claims that this $2.50 is forfeited and that Deins to all intents and purposes is a non-union man.

Under promises of joining the local he was allowed to work, but as he did not join, after being given frequent opportunities, the local took Wednesday night's action, which resulted in the strike today.

J. W. Honenberger, president of the Newark local, said that all Deins had to do was to join the union and all trouble would immediately end.

W. C. Miller and Ulrich F. Roeser, of the Roeser Decorative company, say that the strike this morning was totally unexpected by them. They regret the inconvenience caused to families in various parts of the town, where work is being done, but are sure the trouble will all be settled during the day.

The Roeser company has employed none but union men, and will continue to do so. Their men are all very well satisfied and this trouble is the first the company has ever had.

Beware of Ointment for Cataract That Contains Mercury.

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering through the mucous surfaces, such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. INTERESTING TALKS BY A RETURNED MISSIONARY.

Resignation of Water Works Superintendent—Departure of Major Williams—Local News.

Granville, O., March 5—Rev. Mr. Upscraft who has been doing missionary work in the far interior of China, under the direction of the Baptist Missionary Board, delivered a most entertaining and instructive lecture at the Baptist church on Tuesday evening. Mr. Upscraft has been in China for 19 years and during the Chinese uprisings he has been left for dead several times. During his long stay in China he accomplished a great work equalled only by that of the Rev. Mr. Ashmore. The principal thought of his address on Tuesday evening was in contrasting the conditions and possibilities of fifteen years ago with the present time. On Wednesday evening Rev. Mr. Upscraft delivered an interesting talk in the Y. M. C. A. Hall before a large and appreciative audience.

Miss Uree Bolin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Bolin, died at her home on Sunrise street on Wednesday night at 11 o'clock, after a lingering illness extending over a period of three years, with diabetes. The deceased was aged 31 years, six months and two days, and was a woman who was highly respected by all who knew her. Besides the parents, three brothers and three sisters survive her. At this writing it is not known when the funeral will take place.

D. E. Thompson, who for the past five years has been the faithful and efficient Superintendent of the Granville water works, has tendered his resignation to take effect April 1. It is not known at this writing who his successor will be.

George D. Palmer of Toledo, was here on Monday and stopped at the Buxton House.

W. S. Fawcett of Cincinnati, was in town on business Monday.

J. A. Cupp, of Gibsonville, was in the village the forepart of the week.

After a short visit here with friends Mrs. H. O. Manning has returned to her home in Columbus.

Elmer Williams who has been here for several days, visiting his parents, Major and Mrs. Williams, left today for the Indian Territory, where he has a good position with a railroad surveying party.

Prof. W. H. Boughton, who for a number of years was Professor of Mathematics and Science and who recently resigned to accept a similar position in the West Virginia Institute Morgantown, W. Va., will move his family to that place the first of April.

The members of the Mu Chapter of the Sigma Chi fraternity together with their lady friends, composed a merry theatre party on Wednesday night to Newark to attend "The Rivals." A special car was chartered and boxes at the theatre were used. All returned home greatly pleased with the entertainment.

The members of the Beta Theta Pi fraternity will have a "sugaring" party at Edward Hobart's sugar camp on Saturday evening from 6 to 10 o'clock.

Major William Williams and family, who for the past three years, have been residents of Granville, left today for New Orleans where Major Williams has secured the appointment of Instructor of Military Tactics in a school at that place.

Mr. Hiley, of Dayton was the guest of his daughter, Miss Rosalie Hiley, at Shepardon College, on Monday evening and Tuesday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Kinsley of Terre Haute, Ind., who have been visiting friends in this vicinity for some days, have returned home, after having had a very delightful visit.

Mr. Russell of Newark, was in town all day Monday engaged in taking pictures for the Adytum. Pictures of eight groups were taken.

GOLDEN

Wedding Celebrated by Mr. and Mrs. Nichols Near Alexandria, on February 28.

Outville, O., March 5.—Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Nichols celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary February 28 at their country home about three miles south of Alexandria. Relatives and friends came with well filled baskets, until about forty were there. But the bride of fifty years ago, had prepared the wedding cake, and two turkeys.

After congratulating the bride and groom, a sumptuous dinner was served. The children present were: Mrs. E. L. Thornton of Wood county, near Toledo, C. E. Nichols of Franklin county, near Westerville, E. L. Nichols of Alexandria, Mrs. E. P. Rugg of Outville.

Mr. and Mrs. Nichols were the recipients of several useful presents. Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Nichols, a Morris chair for father; Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Thornton, a purse with a $5 gold piece in it; Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Rugg, gold-rimmed glasses for father; Miss Lena and Edna Rugg, gold thimble for grandma; Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Buxton, Mrs. E. Travitt, Mrs. Lizzie Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Orrin Wilcox, a rocking chair; Mrs. Mary Williams, a gold and black cushion, two hand-made handkerchiefs, Zola Rugg.

Only two were there that attended the wedding fifty years ago. Mrs. E. Trevitt, sister of the groom, Mr. D. Lewis, brother of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Nichols have sixteen grand children, twelve of whom were there. Mr. and Mrs. Nichols have had many pleasures and also clouds of sorrow have often darkened their pathway while journeying along life's way, but they have always been able to see the "silver lining," scatter the clouds by putting their trust in "Him who says, 'It is I, be not afraid.' They have been blessed physically and financially so that in their old age they can live in comfort and happiness until they hear the Master say, "Children, come home."

After spending a pleasant day each one bid them good night, with the wish that they might all meet again on some pleasant occasion.

Negroes Who Refused to Work Upon a Southern Railroad Were Shot Dead.

Austin, Texas, March 5.—A row between a drunken force of several hundred negroes employed on the extension of the Texas and New Orleans Railroad occurred last Monday night in a construction camp situated 25 miles north of Jacksonville. Seven negroes were shot and killed and a number of others wounded. The trouble continued yesterday and three negroes were killed.

The news of this wholesale slaughter of negroes was brought to Jacksonville by G. W. Boschke, assistant engineer of the Southern Pacific, who is in charge of the construction work and was in the camp when the killing occurred. He says that the negroes were paid off last Monday and that they refused to continue work. They got hold of whiskey and began drinking and gambling. The turmoil was still in progress when he left the camp. Mr. Boschke says that a short time ago a similar row occurred between negroes employed on the road and that fifteen of them were killed in one night. No news of the affair was ever published as the construction camp is remotely located.

AN ORDINANCE

Extending the Route of the Newark and Granville Street Railway Company in the City of Newark.

Be it ordained by the Council of the City of Newark, State of Ohio:

Section 1. That consent of said city is hereby granted to The Newark and Granville Street Railway company, its successors and assigns, to construct and operate a single track street railway with the necessary and convenient switches, turnouts, and sidings over and upon the following street, to-wit: Beginning at the East Corporation line of the city of Newark; thence west on East Main street to Cedar street to connect with present tracks of the Newark and Granville Street Railway Company.

Sec. 2. That transfers from all other lines now in operation in said city shall be good and valuable for one continuous passage over all the lines of said Railroad Company within said city.

Section 3. That said Railroad Company shall sell six tickets for twenty-five cents, for passage within said city, upon all lines of said Company within said city.

Sec. 4. That all members of Police and Fire Department while in uniform shall be carried free from charge.

Sec. 5. The grant made in this ordinance is upon the terms and stipulations contained in the ordinance passed August 19th, 1902, renewing and extending the rights and franchises of The Newark and Granville Street Railway company, in the City of Newark.

Sec. 6. This ordinance shall be in force from and after its passage and due publication.

Passed March 2, 1903.
HARRY ROSSEL, President.
F. T. MAURATH, City Clerk.

AN ORDINANCE

Amending Section One of an Ordinance, entitled "An Ordinance to Regulate the Hours of Labor and Compensation therefor Employed in Public Works, Passed August 19, 1901."

Be it ordained by the Council of the City of Newark, State of Ohio:

Section 1. That section one of an ordinance entitled an ordinance to regulate the hours of labor and compensation therefor employed in public works, passed August 19, 1901, be amended so as to read as follows:

Sec. 1. That from and after the taking effect of this ordinance nine hours shall constitute one day of labor for all labor employed by said City of Newark, Ohio, that said labor shall be paid the following schedule of prices:

GIGANTIC OCEAN LINER

Cedric of White Star Line Has Nine Decks.

THE LARGEST SHIP EVER BUILT.

External Dimensions of Latest Triumph of Belfast Builders Identical With Those of the Celtic, but Structural Differences Provide Increased Passenger Accommodations—Novelty in State Rooms.

The White Star Steamship company's latest liner, the Cedric, the largest ship ever built, which will soon arrive at New York on the completion of her maiden voyage, is under the command of Lieutenant Haddock, R. N. R., C. B. Liverpool people are accustomed to the presence in the Mersey of great steamships of the transatlantic lines, but in the case of the Cedric they are showing an unusual interest. Engineering and shipbuilding circles in Europe and America are also unusually interested in the advent of the Cedric, says the New York Commercial Advertiser.

The Cedric is the greatest triumph of the Belfast builders, Harland & Wolff. The external dimensions of this ship are identical with those of the Celtic, but by reason of structural differences to provide increased passenger accommodation the gross tonnage of the former vessel has been slightly increased. The Cedric is 700 feet in extreme length, 75 feet in breadth, 49 1-3 feet deep, with gross tonnage 21,000 tons and displacement 38,200 tons. The propelling machinery consists of two sets of quadruple expansion engines driving twin propellers. There are eight double ended steel boilers capable of working to a pressure of 210 pounds to the square inch, and the vessel is designed to attain a speed of about seventeen knots at sea. She has nine decks, is built on the cellular double bottom principle and is so divided into numerous watertight compartments, exceeding all official requirements, that a maximum of security is obtained.

The Cedric has accommodations for 350 first saloon, 250 second saloon and about 2,000 third class passengers. Her crew will consist of 335 men, 92 of whom will be in the engine room. She has four masts and two funnels. The height of the funnels is 131 feet above the keel; their diameter is 14 feet 3 inches by 11 feet. The Cedric and Celtic, like their forerunner, the Olympic, are intended to cater for the large and increasing class of travelers who prefer to sail in a vessel of good moderate speed rather than in what is known as "a liner." The Cedric will have, in addition to the ordinary state rooms, suits consisting of bed, sitting and bath rooms, enabling those who can afford to pay for the privilege to enjoy all the privacy and comforts obtainable on shore. There are also single berth state rooms, a novelty first introduced in the Oceanic and Celtic. The first class dining saloon is a very handsome apartment. Situated on the upper deck, it extends the full width of the ship (75 feet) and has a seating capacity of 340. The library is luxuriously furnished, and the smoking saloon is spacious and well appointed. The accommodation for the second saloon passengers is aft, on the upper and bridge decks. It is excellent not only in regard to the bedrooms, baths and lavatories, but the dining saloon, library and smoking room are exceptionally attractive and comfortable apartments.

The ventilation throughout is effected by a system of electric and steam fans, as well as by natural means. The third class passengers have large dining rooms, besides comfortably furnished sitting and smoking rooms. There are separate galleys or kitchens for all three classes of passengers, also separate pantries equipped in the most approved modern style. The Cedric is also well provided with such essentials as music, electric light, electric bells, etc., and the cuisine is an object of special care. The dead weight carrying capacity of the Cedric is 18,400 tons. In external appearance she differs little from her sister ship. One needs to see alongside her one of the giants of fifteen or twenty years ago to realize how great a stride has been made in size alone during the interval.

Present For General J. B. Gordon.
F. M. Hill of McKinney, Tex., who served during the civil war under Quantrell, and R. S. Ellis of Caddo, La., who served under General Bedford Forrest, both horsemen, have selected a beautiful blood bay horse, 15 1/2 hands high, six years old, without a blemish, perfectly trained and gaited, to be presented to General J. B. Gordon as a present from ex-Confederates at the reunion to be held in New Orleans in May next, says a special dispatch from Guthrie, Okla., to the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. This horse is now in the possession of Ellis at Caddo and will be shipped to New Orleans ten days before the reunion, to be ridden by General Gordon in the procession.

Device to Perfect Ship Signaling.
Announcement has just been made at a meeting in Montreal of the Marconi Wireless Telegraph company that it promises to revolutionize the signaling to ships. Marconi has almost perfected an apparatus to measure the distance between a ship at sea and a station on land, says the New York Times. This will be accomplished by means of a movable disk, which will be affected by the current from the ship. Naturally the further the ship the weaker the current. The disk will have stationary marks, which will register the exact distance from ship to shore. Stations will be established all along the St. Lawrence river and gulf to Belle Isle.

HINTS FOR FARMERS

Do Not Burn Off the Vegetation.
It is an old custom to burn everything we can on the farm. This is a great mistake. Every kind of rotting vegetable matter is valuable. The decaying grass and stalks and leaves of every sort help to furnish readily soluble food for the next crop. They make the best possible manure except the animal matter.

But it is not alone for the manure that they are valuable. In rotting they create humus. Without humus our soils will not yield. Anything that increases the humus in the soil greatly increases the capacity of that soil to produce.

For this reason we should carefully preserve and plow in every possible pound of vegetable matter. Whenever you see a smoke on the farm you may know that there goes part of that farmer's money, literally "gone up in smoke."

Fire has done almost as much damage to the farms as the water. Never burn anything that will rot. Anything that will burn will rot. Therefore never burn anything on the farm.

It is true that sometimes a very heavy coat of grass poorly turned under and that too late in the season will cut off capillary action until it has time to rot. This sometimes causes a slight delay in the crop and gives some trouble in the work. For this reason many have decided that it pays to burn off the grass. It may seem to do so on the first crop, but so great is the benefit later on that we can well afford to lose this little for the larger later gain.

Keep the fires out of your farm.—Southern Cultivator.

Corn and Latitude.

An immense amount of corn grown in the west last year was caught by the early frost and killed before the kernels hardened. That is why we see so much in the papers about "soft corn." One reason for this was that corn growers wanted to increase the size of the plant and sent too far south for seed. It will not do to plant 120 day corn in a ninety day latitude. It may mature some seasons, but the chances are against it. In the far south we have the advantage that any sort of corn from any sort of climate will have all the time it wants for growing and maturing, and may then be harvested in time to plant small grain on the same land, thus growing a crop and a half in one year, and if the corn was preceded by a winter growing crop it would be two full crops in twelve months.—Texas Farm and Ranch.

Fighting Weeds.

Where the land is not in meadow or pasture, we get rid of the weeds by frequent cultivation. When possible, before sowing or planting any crop it is best to let the freshly plowed land lie long enough for the weed seeds to come up. We then run them over with a strong harrow or weeder while the ground is dry and get rid of most of them. Other seeds still may germinate, but these are usually killed in cultivating the crop or by moving them off before the seeds ripen after the crop has been removed. It is the worst sort of policy to allow a large mass of weeds to ripen seed and scatter broadcast. If they are annuals, of course they cannot come up the following year without seed, and perennials will die if we keep them shorn of their leaves, and it is the same with sprouts.—T. C. Carns in American Agriculturist.

Government Seeds.

Seedsmen will now have less to complain of in the government seed distribution, as the secretary buys his seed in the open market and not by contract and employs contractors only for the mechanical work of packing and shipping. The machine that puts the seed in the bags is a wonder of accuracy. It weighs the amount for each paper, opens the paper, puts in the seed and folds and seals the package, ready to go, and every package, in thousands of the same kind, weighs exactly the same. The secretary proposes to send out the novelties in seeds that the seedsmen offer till they are well known and then leave their further distribution to the trade.—Practical Farmer.

Tomato Growers Getting Together.

At a recent meeting tomato growers in the Fairmount district of Somerset county, Md., decided that they would not contract to grow tomatoes for less than 15 cents for a five-eighths bushel basket to be sold by the basket and the canner to furnish baskets for the grower to dump his tomatoes in at the factory. There was another meeting held at Jamestown attended by tomato growers from Westover and Brinkley districts Jan. 17, and the action of the previous meeting was indorsed. A committee was named from each district present to get tomato growers of their respective districts to support the measure.

Economy in Little Things.

We once heard of a farmer who said he would not become surety on a note for a man who would light his pipe with a match while standing by the fire. Little things are pointers to character—letting the shoes burn while warming the feet, cutting the shoe string rather than untie it, leaving the saw out in the damp or throwing down more hay to the stock than they will eat. Let the farm boys remember this.—Tennessee Farmer.

Turkistan Alfalfa.

Turkistan alfalfa has been tested by the government in the west and the result published in a bulletin. In no case did it prove superior in quality and yield to the sort commonly grown. It is thought, however, that it may be a little more resistant to cold.

An Old Favorite

THE RULER OF THE QUEEN'S NAVEE

By William S. Gilbert

WILLIAM SCHWENK GILBERT, English dramatist and humorist, was born in London Nov. 18, 1836, and now resides near London. He was educated for the bar, but most of his life has been devoted to literature. His name is generally associated with that of the late Sir Arthur Sullivan, with whom he collaborated in producing a long series of comic operas. Gilbert furnished the libretto and Sullivan the words of "The Mikado," "Pirates of Penzance," and many others. The song given below is sung by Sir Joseph Porter in "Pirates of Penzance" and was also written the well known "Bab Ballads."

WHEN I was a lad I served a term
As office boy to an attorney's firm.
I cleaned the windows and I swept the floor,
And I polished up the handle of the big front door.

As office boy I made such a mark,
That they gave me the post of junior clerk,
I served the writs with a smile so bland,
And I copied all the letters in a big round hand.

I polished up the handle so care-free
That now I am the ruler of the Queen's Navee.
I copied all the letters in a hand so free,
And now I am the ruler of the Queen's Navee.

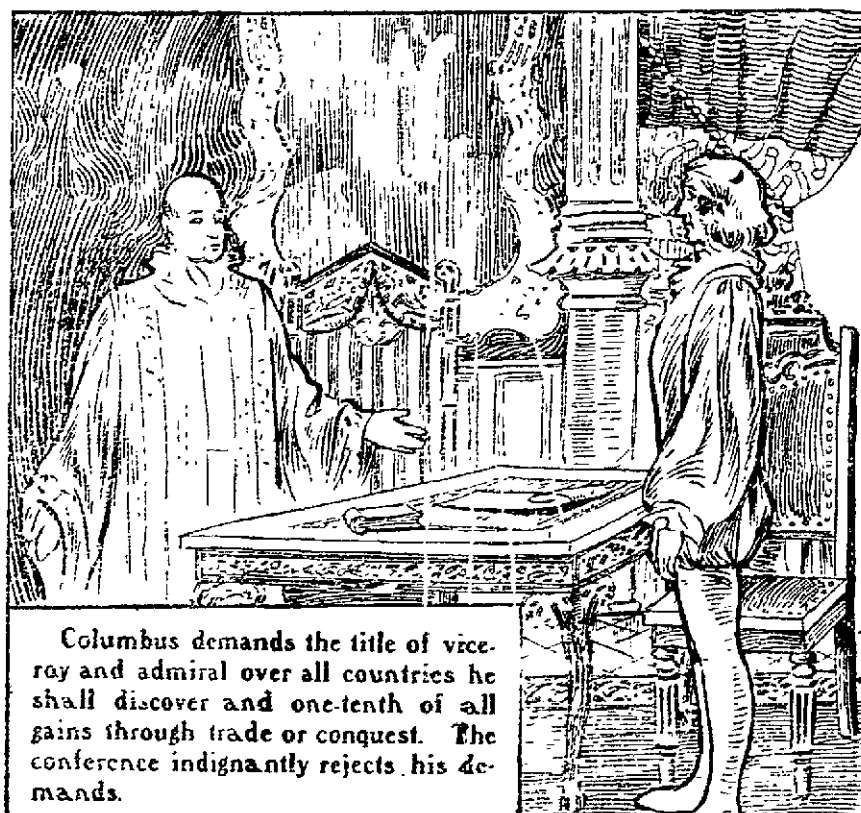

In serving writs I made such a name
That an article clerk I soon became;
I wore clean collars and a brain new suit
For the pass examination at the Institute.
And that pass examination did so well for me,
That now I am the ruler of the Queen's Navee.

Of legal knowledge I acquired such a grip,
That they took me into the partnership,
And that junior partnership I won
Was the only ship that I ever had seen.
But that kind of ship so suited me,
That now I am the ruler of the Queen's Navee.

I grew so rich, that I was sent
By a pocket borough into Parliament;
I always voted at my party's call,
And I never thought of thinking for myself at all.
I thought so little they rewarded me,
By making me the ruler of the Queen's Navee.

Now landmen all, whoever you may be,
If you want to rise to the top of the tree,
If your soul isn't fettered to an office stool,
Be careful to be guided by this golden rule—
Stick close to your desks and never go to sea,
And you may all be rulers of the Queen's Navee.

SONG OF MARION'S MEN

By William Cullen Bryant

GENERAL FRANCIS MARION, called the "Swamp Fox," was one of the ablest American commanders during the Revolutionary war. He was born near Georgetown, S. C., in 1732. In early manhood Marion fought against the Indians, and at the outbreak of the war for independence he became a captain in the forces of his state. He shared with Sumter and Greene the honor of playing a large part in the struggle in the south. The methods of Marion are well described in the poem given below. After the war he became a farmer and later served as a legislator and general in the South Carolina militia. General Marion died near Edisto, S. C., Feb. 28, 1782.

OUR band is few, but true and tried,
Our leader frank and bold,
The British soldier trembles
When Marion's name is told.
Our fortress is the good greenwood,
We know the forest ground,
As we know the forest ground,
As we know the forest ground.

HATS FOR SPRING.

An Advance Peep at the New Easter Millinery.

(Special Correspondence.)

New York, March 2.—There is something decidedly new in the line of the hats designed expressly for Easter. They are not only new, but striking and remarkably becoming. I refer to the turban shape, which has just enough of that form to distinguish it from the others now in vogue.

One exceedingly striking hat was in turban shape, with the brim two inches deep, standing straight up all around and being set out from the crown nearly three inches in front and an inch and a half in the back. The whole was covered with cream colored velvet and overlaid with rich elany lace, mat white. Under the brim was a series of folds of cream lisse in a deep cream. Across the crown and reaching down to the edge of the brim was a flat band of pink fur held by a fancy button. Across the back was set a bunch of frosted grapes and leaves. The grapes were in several stages of ripeness. Most of the leaves were white, and so were the grapes, but the upper leaves were shaded and frosted so that the whole made a beautiful arrangement of color.

Another beautiful hat is in a modified turban shape and is of ivory white velvet, fine white chip and dark green velvet. The hat is of the chip, all except the brim, which is of green velvet bound with ivory white velvet top and bottom. There is a drape of the white around the crown and at the back is a donkey ear bow of both white and green, two ends standing up and two falling over the hair in the back.

The flat styles are quite as fashionable as they have been. An example of this shape is made of greenish gray velvet, with the brim surrounded by a drape of handsome white lace, which falls in the back to the collar. A very unique trimming is formed of white velvet calla lilies and their foliage. These droop with the lace at the back. Another hat was made on those same lines, but had morning glories in all their delicate and velvety tints instead of the callas.

It is rare to see such large blossoms on hats, but this year it seems as if each person had her own ideas and worked them out at will. Some of the hats of the season have the most fragile and delicate flowers, and then again we find great chrysanthemums, roses, pond lilies and now callas. The manufacture of these flowers is real art, as the finest defect of nature is copied, even to having some of the blossoms faded and browned by the sun. Leaves bitten by worms and twigs with spider webs woven in them are often found.

There was one hat with something of a faraway look of oriental royalty about it. One might think it originally intended for a shah if it were not among the new head coverings for the fair women of our own free land. The turban had a deep brim, full three inches, and set out but about three inches over the brow and was quite close in the back. The whole was covered with white Indian crape, which has the deepest and most pronounced crinkles of any crape. This gave a beautiful effect of light and shade. On the left side was a large ornament of pearls, bordered with a line of black and gold cord. Two rows of this crossed the front and were festooned up at the right side under another pearl ornament and then reached the center of the back.

EASTER MILLINERY.

forming a military loop with tiny picquets at the end of the cord. At the left side and held by the ornament was a beautiful incurved skirt of white with a faint yellow tint.

For more ornate wear there are basket weaves in all kinds of straws, the most of them coarse, but still with quite a number of the always desirable clips, both black and white. The folded chiffon brims are still among the favorites, and many will be worn all next season. The chiffon must be black and well applied. It is by no means an easy thing for an amateur to do. There are shapes of the folded chiffon already prepared for those who wish to trim their own hats, and they are for cheaper in the long run than to try to make them. I speak by the card.

Speaking of flowers on one of these hats reminds me that I saw a hat made of soft folds of French gray chiffon. The crown and under the left side of the brim were covered with beautiful pink roses. Here and there a green leaf showed, and all the rest was as though one had fastened as many close bunches of these lovely flowers to the hat, as could be made to stay on. Gray in that particular shade with velvet pink roses and a little green make something very French and stylish.

A gray zibeline suit for Easter has a brown hat to go with it. This is trimmed only with violets, but such masses! The combination is very elegant and also springlike. OLIVE HARPER.

THE CAKEWALK IN PARIS

All Classes of Society Captivated by the Craze.

NO LONGER A MARSH, BUT A DANCE

From the Circus It Is Permeating the Ballrooms of the Rich—How It Is Pronounced by Parisians—The Anglo-Saxon in a New Light—Inception of the Dance in Paris.

The American invasion continues. After Standard Oil and Thomson-Houston electric railways, after Morganization and the efforts of a Chicago gas company to obtain the contract for a municipal service, after the "Strenuous Life," with President Roosevelt as its prophet, the cakewalk has conquered Paris, writes the special correspondent of the New York Post. It is no longer a march or solemn promenade, with allusive racial color; it has become a dance, rapid, with sudden breaks and unexpected movements, exotic in time and tune and healthily epileptic. There was room for it.

Never has the disordered rhythm of exotic motion so triumphed among Parisians. From the beginning the cakewalk has not been limited, like its predecessors, to the promiscuousness of the dance halls. It has been taken up by the nobility and the plutocrats, and the bourgeois, half fearful of its correctness, have been obliged to follow the example. Mothers accept the inevitable and console themselves with the knowledge that these American inventions at least give their daughters physical exercise.

It was as early as October that I learned the coming of the cakewalk to Paris, where hitherto it had been completely unknown. My informant was a professor of dancing who upholds triumphantly the good name of Americans for an artistic as well as a light fantastic toe. He came to Paris years ago, after much minstrel wandering in America, to teach step dances at the opera, which required them for the ballet of the Korrigane. Thence he drifted to the English court for the children of the Prince of Wales, and then to Spain, where he taught the young king how to dance the "Boston." Back in Paris, he has been the chief promoter among his swell public of this giddy dance masquerading under the name of the city of severe culture, and he has just opened a superb dance palace, modern style, for his exclusive circles. "The Boston," he said to me, "will be replaced the coming winter by the cakewalk."

"How in the world is it to be pronounced?" was the first and natural question. "Kek Valk," was the answer, and so it is now everywhere known—"rail" being sounded like the first syllable of "valley."

It would be a social study to know the secret of the unanimity of vogue in this instance. An American troupe—white and "erectiles"—brought out the cakewalk at the circus, to the unmitigated delight of children and grown folks alike. Then a French adaptation of it—regularized with a little of the old high kicking and less of the grotesque element—appeared commonly in the music halls. Meanwhile dancing teachers everywhere were emulating with each other in the only real and genuine cakewalk dance, and no ball or party could be without it. Now, quite as if it had all been but a clever advertising preliminary, it appears in the theater in "Florodora," to which I bear it has been transplanted from some other English or American classic whose renown has not yet reached us—"The Honey and the Bee."

"Florodora" has quite upset all previous French ideas of Anglo-Saxon gravity. "The humor," says one severe critic, "is fantastic and incoherent. It consists in the characters interrupting the little they have to say with jigs and other much frenzied dancing. The music is that of dancing saloons." Emile Faguet, who is a sober academician, thinks, however, that it may run a hundred nights, probably because of the songs and dances. But all are dismayed that it should have taken possession of a theater properly so called. "Shall we then see Mount Sully and Mme. Bartet leading in a cakewalk between the acts of Racine's tragedies?" croaks a prophet of woe in this sudden overthrow of the traditions.

Malignant critics of the government have applied the name of the cakewalk, with its sudden break in the middle, to the recent astounding declarations of the prime minister acknowledging the necessity of religious instruction, which was supposed to be contrary to all his previous policy. After this it only remains for one of the bi-dips to apply the metaphor to the first of his colleagues that disagrees with him. Then the triumph of the American cakewalk will be complete, for it will have invaded all circles of French society from the frivolous to the grave. Meanwhile we have shown that we are not only able to capture the world's lawlessness; we can also amuse it.

Pingpong's Rival.

The popular game of pingpong has a rival in a novelty that is known as ponce ball. A bat and ball are used in playing this latest variation of table tennis, but instead of a net or netting, shaped paddles are substituted in each ball. These paddles, half a dozen in number are suspended from a rod, and the object in playing the game is to hit the ball served by one's opponent into one of these paddles.

Scheme to Abolish Tipping.

In Berlin the "Antiquary society" has been formed, and branches are to be started all over Germany. The object is to do away with "tipping."

HELD ROUSING MEETING WEDNESDAY NIGHT.

Cedar Camp Has Over 800 Members—Prizes Donated—New Members Taken in—Notes.

Cedar Camp held a rousing meeting Wednesday night with 101 members present and ten applications were balloted on and accepted. John P. Lamb and G. S. Gosnell were led through the forest of brotherly love, and were first class candidates so the "boys" say. A liberal donation was made in response to an appeal from Head Consul Northcott in behalf of the famine sufferers in Norway. The committee on prizes report the following as contributing: Earl F. Collins, R. U. Smith, Rutledge Bros, P. B. Smythe, A. N. Banton, Mitchell Van Atta & Co., T. J. Heib, Manhattan Restaurant, Tabler & Williams, C. S. Kerr, N. C. Sherburne, W. S. Brandriff, Dr. F. M. O'Hara, W. S. Weiant, Jas A. McGonagle and B. W. Murphy. Cedar Camp now has over 800 members, Ohio 21,900 and the jurisdiction 700,000.

An invitation was issued to the Camp at Hebron to visit Cedar Camp on the night of March 18th and witness the work. The members will be notified regarding date for presentation of banner by Director Murphy of Kansas in the near future.

WOMAN

Married Two Years Before She Learned That Former Husband wasn't Divorced.

Goshen, Ind., March 5—After being wedded to Thomas Wedge of Elkhart for two years and having a nine months old child, Delia F. Sweet discovered her former husband, Phineas W. Sweet, had never secured a divorce from her, as she had understood. She secured a divorce here and will remarry Wedge.

Dr. W. J. Armour, a prominent Goshen professional man, whose wife de-camped last June while he was attending the Chicago Derby and who went to South Dakota, where she later filed suit for divorce, was today granted a divorce on the grounds of unlawful association and abandonment. K. G. Foster an Armour (S. D.) business man, was named as co-respondent.

Of the 42,000 emigrants from Ireland last year a very large number spoke the ancient Irish language.

A Prominent Newark Firm.

Name of Firm
Name of Contestant
Age of Contestant

INSTRUCTIONS: After solving the rebus insert name of firm on top blank line, your own name and age on the lines below. Cut out this rebus on border lines and preserve it until nine others, which will appear between February 24 and March 6, are solved in a like manner. Take any single one of the ten firms pictured between February 24 and March 6 and write 100 words or less (no more than 100 words) about said firm. The 100 word composition may be a description of the store, a short story of the business firm, or in fact anything the writer chooses to say about any one of the firms portrayed in the rebuses, but the composition must not exceed 100 words in length. It may be as much less than 100 words as the contestant desires.

This contest is open to all boys and girls who are 15 years of age or under. The judges will consider a contestant 15 until he or she shall have passed his or her 16th birthday anniversary.

To the boy or girl whose solutions of the ten rebuses are nearest correct and whose 100 word composition is best the Advocate will give a prize of $5.00.

To the second best $3.

To the third best $2.

Solutions together with the compositions must be mailed or sent to the Advocate Rebus Editor not later than Saturday, March 14, at 7 p. m.

Three competent judges will award the prizes.

First the rebuses must be correctly solved; then the judges in passing on the merits of the 100 words articles, will consider spelling, writing, grammar, punctuation, composition and neatness.

Judges will take contestant's age into consideration, so the younger children will have as good an opportunity to win the prizes as the older boys and girls.

Cheeks will be mailed to the prize winners as soon after March 14 as the judges can reach a decision.

CHANGE FOR THE BETTER.

The Way Physicians Now Treat Catarrh.

Physicians who formerly depended upon inhalers, sprays and local washes or ointments now use Stuart's Catarrh Tablets because as one of the most prominent stated, these tablets contain in pleasant, convenient form all the really efficient and reliable catarrh remedies, such as, red gum, blood root and Hydrastin.

They contain no cocaine or opiate (so common in liquid catarrh medicines and cough syrups) and they are given to little children with entire safety and benefit.

Dr. J. J. Reittinger says: I suffered from Catarrh in my head and throat every winter and it would hang on clear into summer, with stoppage of the nose and irritation in the throat affecting my voice so that I was continually clearing my throat before I could speak plainly; it finally extended to the stomach causing catarrh of the stomach.

I bought a fifty cent box of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets at my druggist's carried them in my pocket and used them regularly several times a day and the way in which they cleared my head and throat and improved my hearing and general health I consider little short of remarkable. I had no catarrh last winter and spring and know I am entirely free from any catarrhal trouble whatever.

Mrs. Jerome Ellison of Wheeling writes: I suffered from catarrh nearly my whole life and last winter my two children also suffered from catarrhal colds and sore throat so much they were out of school a large part of the winter. Mr. brother who was cured of catarrhal deafness by using Stuart's Catarrh Tablets urged me so much to try them that I sent to the drug store and bought a package and I am truly thankful for what they have done for me and my children. I always keep a box of the tablets in the house and at the first appearance of a cold or sore throat, one or two of the catarrh tablets nips it in the bud and Catarrh is no longer a household affliction with us.
